CRAB ORCHARD.

Sam Cochran is sick at Cedar Creek. Good health, pretty weather and busy farmers.

We understand that John, Sam and Dudley Holmes are going to have the fine body of timber known as the "Hurricane Woods," sawed into lumber. This is the finest body of timber any where near here.

One of the most enjoyable occasions of the year was the St. Patrick eye social given in honor of the Euchre Club, by Misses Pearl and Clara Collier at their pretty home. Cards and other games were indulged in—suitable to the occasion, such as kissing the Blarney Stone and answering questions on Ireland's history. Two prizes were offered, one to the lady answering the most questions, which was won by Miss Fannie Redd, and Dr. Phillips won the gentleman's prize. Each guest received a souvenir card representing the Shamrock, tied with a bow of green ribbon and bearing the name of the guest. After enjoying music and the games, the guests repaired to the spacious dining room and sat down to a feast of good things fit for the gods. The color scheme was carried out in pink and green, the latter color predominating. Fancy cakes, iced to represent the Shamrock in green, all the luscious fruits to be had in Louisville, including pears, Malaga grapes and strawberries, composed a part of the menu. Those who were fortunate enough to be present are loud in their praises of the pleasant occasion.

A "Pome" on "Uncle Dink."

You know Dink Farmer he used to farm
Out on the Knob's highway,
He got tired of planting corn
And raising oats and hay.

And now says he, I'm getting old,
My step is slow and frail,
I'll make a change for a while
By keeping the Stanford jail.

Hurrah! says he, I've won at last,
The race I've run so long,
I'll hasten home to tell dear wife
And the rest of my happy throng.

That we can go and live in town
And hear the town clock strike,
And if we want to take a spin
We'll have the smooth turnpike.

I am a farmer by name and trade,
Have raked the sweat from my brow,
I'll always thank the people at heart
For the position I occupy now.

And now to my opponents who got lost
In the dust from my running feet,
Drop in and I will welcome you
For there's no disgrace in defeat.

F. L. DAVIS.

A Religious Author's Statement.

Rev. Joseph H. Fespersion, Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy." New Stanford Drug Co.

A Kentucky girl whose father was an undertaker was sent to a fashionable New York boarding school for a finishing term. One day one of the girls asked her what business her father was in, and, fearing she would lose caste if she told the truth, she carelessly answered, "Oh, my father's a Southern planter."—Lippincott's.

Among those who attended his burial were Hollis May, of Somerset, Mr. and Mrs. Cicero Reynolds and W. L. McCarty, of Stanford.

To The Voters of The 13th Judicial District.

HARRRODSBURG, March 23.—For some reasons I would ask the nomination of my party for circuit judge, and yet for stronger ones I feel I should refrain from seeking it, and retire to private life at this time. Those who are nearest to me are insistent, and I have concluded, after careful consideration, not to offer. I shall take my place, as formerly, in the party ranks, with the hope that I may be of some service there. I shall never cease to labor for what I believe to be the cause of the people and the best interests of my party. I can not express the deep appreciation I entertain for the exalted honor you have bestowed upon me, and I shall cherish with lasting devotion the happy friendships I have formed throughout the district. W. C. BELL.

Establishing a new ruling, that will probably be contested by labor unions in the United States in the Supreme court of the United States, Judge A. M. J. Cochran at Covington issued an injunction against members of the Mine Workers' International Union, forbidding them to use money in seeking to prevent or persuade employees of a mine in which a strike has been declared by the union, from working for the owners of the mine. The injunction is one of the phases of the labor troubles in Stearns, where trouble occurred on Christmas day.
